Yes but we still have democratic processes like voting, where the people are supposed to have a voice but which has been eliminated in the US thanks to corrupt shitocrats defrauding the electoral process and disenfranchising 200 million citizens (a fair estimate of how many oppose leftist tyranny despite most not actually voting, but still, their voting rights are nullified regardless).

We could vote in overwhelming, unbeatable numbers, and as you said, they'd still find a way to cheat the system with rigged machines, and a number of paid commie operatives.

This is the tipping point.

We either take our rightful victory at the helm, or risk certain communist takeover.

The masks are off, they want us dead.

Having a process that is associated with democracy doesn't mean we can refer to the country as a democracy. Sorry but it's a pet peeve of mine that you rarely hear us referred to with the correct terminology, "constitutional representative republic," if anything "republic" would work as a shortened version.

parent permalink save report block reply.

= MAGAt 1 point 8 hours ago +11 / -10

Our constitutional republic was supposed to be controlled by white male land owners. As we eroded the constitution we invited more and more communists to vote.

Unfortunately we've reached a tipping point where too many communists are voting.

We need to go back to the original intent of the constitution. A republic in which only male land owners can vote. If this idea is too scary to you, look inwards towards your engrained liberal bias. This is what the country was meant to be. One nation, under GOD.

Fuck toxic feminism, fuck communism and leftism in general, but...

So any citizen without a strip of land would live tax free then? No representation, no taxation, and other silly ideas...

While founding fathers were great and wise men, they didn't and couldn't foresee everything.

That idea was tied to the reality of most business and commerce being based on land, farming et al.

There are quite strong branches of economy that have no need of land ownership or very little, minuscule so. You would like to strip those people and enterprises of their fair share of influence over government, which regulates many things regarding their lives and actions, their taxes funding said government?

What about people living in high-density cities, where ownership of land is more or less impossible or impractical?

Not every based, freedom loving, law abiding patriot owns land. Not every land owner is based, freedom loving, law abiding and a patriot.

Such an idea is cuckolded feudalism. A thing founding fathers fucking escaped from.

Abolish most of the governmental power and bring power back to the individuals, let people self-govern and dictate their own rules. Let the government oversee and fund bare crucial minimum, like military and such, and keep it that.

And people need to take up the responsibility of keeping officials at bay. Officials are workers of the people, not the other way around. That is the crucial part - conscious, vigilant populace led by reason. Without it any form of governance goes to fucking shit, the only difference being "how fast".

Strip down the government.

Then, commie ballots wouldn't be an issue. Of what concern would be their influence on the vote if government has minuscule influence over people? A system where people run their lives by themselves, without the ups and downs of big government.

parent permalink save report block reply.

– DJTrump 5 points 5 hours ago +5 / -0

This is why net positive taxpayers should get a vote only. The tax code should be radically simplified for many reasons, but it would also make it easy to establish who a net positive taxpayer is. If you have no skin in the game, why should you have a say? People voting themselves "goodies" is the big lesson learned since the founding fathers and steps should be taken to alleviate the danger thereof.

parent permalink save report block reply.

– RememberKosciuszko 1 point 5 hours ago +1 / -0

While the idea seems reasonable and intent good, it could see malicious use.

Officials could raise the shit out of taxes to force people to meet the "voting eligibility quota". Other measures could be used to disenfranchise "undesirables".

People would have to be really careful with this idea.

About to go on off a tangent, so beware.

It's like with abortion. In Poland, abortion laws are strict. There are only 3 incidences (2? I'll explain the confusion) where it's allowed:

- pregnancy due to crime (rape, incest et al)
- pregnancy being serious threat to mothers health and life
- it was determined that child will be seriously impaired (think Down syndrome or anything serious of the sorts) or wouldn't even be born alive (the confusion bit: Constitutional Tribunal ruled few months back that it's against constitution, but it's still not 100% clear how it will play out)

And I think it should stay that way.

Why? Because creeping normality.

80 years ago, enormous majority of people didn't even now "transsexuals" exist or even could exist.

40-ish years ago it became quite a know issue.

20 years ago general movement for "tolerance" started to grow.

Today, in some places you can land in court for misgendering someone and you'll get cancelled to hell and back.

The same goes for homosexuality. The same thing will go for pedophilia if we'll get caught of guard - and I personally believe it to be the end game for all the LGBTQIA Alphabet Gang international orgs. Normalizing, legalizing pedophilia.

If we get distracted, I give it 40 years tops in most optimistic scenario.

Anyway, somehow back to subject.

If we were about to legalize first trimester abortions, in few years talk about no condition abortion would start.

Second trimester next.

Then the third.

50 years from now, they'll wonder "maybe we should allow killing newborns up to certain age?"

Governments would ask "maybe we could enforce it on undesirables on the pretext "muh well being of kids, you can't be too poor to have a kid!".

Use your imagination and apply such way of thinking to your proposal. How it could end?

I'm not disregarding it straight out. I'm just concerned and I know it should be really, really well thought out.

If major change is to occur, or just about anything done - it's not only about intent of the thing and goal to achieve.

People need to consider the possibilities it will open and the malicious ways it could be abused by evil actors.

We need to consider, what would happen "x years in the future".

Because if you give them an inch, they'll surely will go for a mile.

Don't give them an inch.

Well chances is he tries anything drastic the deep state is gonna try to take him down under the pretense of saving the republic from a dictator. You gotta remember that the alphabet agencies are full with traitors and commie supporters and they aint just gonna roll over and accept a loss. Likewise many people around him in essential positions turned out be snakes, and its not even clear how much of the SS can be trusted.

So in the first hours while control is established and its clear who is behind him and who is not, a big mass of a sympathetic bodies acts both as additional security and makes it easier for undecided people in important positions to choose a side.

Sure they might not make an attempt to take him down but better safe than sorry.

Military leaders are extremely likely and it will be very easy to refuse the order and face no consequences when Biden is in. Without a large contingent of citizens there to reinforce the idea this is what the people want the military esp the leadership is more likely to falter and disobey than not. They may do it anyway even if a million of us show up. Honestly like others have mentioned, I feel if we're just there holding sign and shit it will make no difference. If we are there and appear ready to enforce justice ourselves if needed it sends a completely different vibe out.

I'm seeing a lot of people say 'boy I wish I could go but I can't' or 'I can't go to DC but if he calls for us to rise up, I will'

THIS IS THE CALL TO RISE UP

Be in DC. If you truly CANNOT be in DC, be at your state capitol. If you can't be there, be at your City Hall. You will take off work on the 6th. You will mobilize. You will physically leave your domicile and stand on a street, preferably wearing red, white, and blue with a sign.

If you are home on January 6th, you have signaled that you are ready for President Joseph Biden.

MOBILIZE

I understand the feeling of inability to leave due to finances or family. But it must be understood:

IF THEY WIN THEY WILL COME FOR ALL OF THAT ANYWAY

This is our last true chance to free ourselves. This is it. The chips are on the table whether you want to put them there or not. It sounds dire because it is. That is why people have to understand that you aren't leaving anything they aren't already planning to take. This is how you protect it

I understand what you're saying. But understand also that there are limits to who can do what. And some people can be more effective where they are. There will be plenty of people going to DC. If you're 1000 or more miles away, protest at your state capital. And if the time comes to start shooting, shoot the people who are where you are. We have commies and RINOs everywhere. We need to take control everywhere. We need a show of force everywhere, not just in DC.

Feds, I'm speaking hypothetically here, what is to guarantee someone coming down to DC, with their rifle and plate carriers with the boys, the promise that others will be doing the same in HUGE numbers and for a place to link up. This can't be done ad hoc if someone truly wants to organize this. I have no real connections with other non immediate friends like a proud boys type network, even if I wanted to do this. That's a stop gap that's hard to fill if someone really wanted to do this.

AUTISTS ASSEMBLE look at the snapchat picture from last night ! we've been waiting for a signal from POTUS - this is it. remember "Highlights for Children" ?

halfway between his waist and the left margin of the picture. See the shadowy rectangle ? What is that ? It's about the same height as his legs are long. It's proportioned about the same as a box of cartridges.

[EDIT: ~~Now ROTATE THE IMAGE. There is something to the left of the lion that's NOT A REFLECTION OF SOMETHING ON THE SHORE and you don't see it until you rotate the image. and it is in close to the same place as the shadow rectangle.~~ fuck, my screen was dirty]

THERE IS A HIDDEN MESSAGE IN THIS PICTURE.

Is there hidden code in this picture? It's a 1.28 mb .PNG file. What can we learn from it? Is there metadata that would tell us anything in this picture ? Any layers ?

permalink save report block reply

– dlof 2 points 8 hours ago +3 / -1

Hrm... that rectangle is pretty weird huh. I'm no autist but if I was posting a rectangle as a hidden message, it would probably relate to its dimensions. Definitely need some chans and autists on the case.

The rectangle seems to be 55 pixels wide by 190 pixels high.

$190/55 = 3.45454545455$

Or $55/190$ is 0.28947368421

I can't see that reflection on the left of the lion though, even with the image flipped.

the rectangle has another smaller rectangle in the lower left corner that is the same proportion as the bigger rectangle. More pixel ratios with a numeric message?

3.45454545 means 45 gets more than 2 terms ? Is that an irrational number that repeats to infinity?

I have heard that it is possible to embed executable code in a graphics file.
